EIP

EIP launches Ampliphy

EIP has launched a new new strategic IP and legal service specifically for semiconductor chip designers and deep tech electronics and photonics companies called Ampliphy.

The service is designed to help early stages companies develop effective IP strategies that maximise value.

Ampliphy combines EIP's industry and technical experience to address the challenges and complexity of the sector with the added benefit of commercial advice from your multidisciplinary team.

Visit the Ampliphy page to learn more about the service.
