

New hire at EIP's regional hub in Sweden

As the second anniversary of its opening approaches, EIP's Sweden office hires Rasmus Fredlund, a Swedish and European Patent Attorney.

The expansion to Sweden solidified EIP's commitment to growth in the Nordics – well known for their innovation across the region – and has brought the firm closer to both existing and new clients. The team is steadily growing, first with paralegal Anna Moberg who joined last year, followed by Senior Associate Filip Jörgensen who joined in April, and now with Rasmus starting at Managing Associate level in the Stockholm office.

Rasmus has over 15 years' experience dealing with patents in electronics and mechanical fields. Before entering private practice, Rasmus was an in-house Patent Attorney at Suzlon Technology Group in Germany which makes him very aware of both the intellectual property and commercial challenges of R&D departments.

Inga-Lill Andersson, Head of the Stockholm office and EIP's practice in Sweden, said:

"We are thrilled that Rasmus is joining our team! His skills and enthusiasm will be a valuable addition to our offering and align perfectly with the spirit of Samverkan* and joy that defines us at EIP."

Rasmus Fredlund said:

"I'm excited for this new chapter and to join this thriving, growing team at EIP. My mixed in-house experience so far has allowed me to build a balanced view and understanding of the challenges innovative businesses face and I look forward to applying my skills to support EIP's clients."

*cooperation , collaboration , working together

p2

External coverage to date:

- EIP—Rasmus Fredlund | New Law Journal | The leading weekly legal magazine
- EIP bolsters Sweden regional hub | Careers | World IP Review